

Mother's Day Custom Will Be Introduced

MOTHER'S DAY.

Object—To honor "The best mother who ever lived—your own."
Tribute—Loving remembrance of your mother—or her memory—through some distinct act of kindness, visit or letter.
Floral badge—Wear a white flower—emblem of purity and fidelity—on Mother's day. If possible send one to others as a message of sympathy and brotherhood. Remember the sick or unfortunate in hospitals, homes, or prisons, and those who labor on this May Sabbath for your comfort.
Time—The second Sabbath in May; schools on preceding Friday.
Observance—Mother's day may be observed through special sermons, exercises or addresses in honor of "Our Mothers," and the wearing and distribution of white flowers in connection with such an occasion.

NATION'S MOTHERS.

All hail to the nation's mothers!
All hail to her knights, brave and true!
God hasten the day of their crowning,
God bless them for what they will do.
She asks but the love of her children,
The heart of her husband, and then,
Holding them close through all sorrows,
Be with them where joys never end!

MRS. BAKER P. LEE.

TO MY MOTHER.

What shall I send thee, my mother,
On this blessed, holy day?
For thy tender faith and love
What can I ever say?
I pray that your heart's devotion
May return an hundred fold
To enrich your life and others
Far above the wealth of gold.
Memories hallowed and dear
All filled with sacred fragrance
Of blended laughter and tear,
Sweet are the thoughts of my childhood
Round your name in my heart each
They cling but closer and bring us
To that home—where shall you now near?

MRS. BAKER P. LEE.

ON SUNDAY, May 8, Salt Lake will observe Mother's day, the day to honor "The best mother who ever lived—your own." Although this beautiful custom has won an international, as well as national recognition and approval, it has never been observed in Salt Lake. This year the club women of Salt Lake propose to establish the custom here in such a fitting manner that the mother will be honored in every home.

For the observance of this day the club women have come up with a plan, and with them the Parks and Playgrounds association. Included in the plan are the preaching of sermons appropriate to the day by the ministers of the city, a mass meeting, a dance, a distribution of flowers, buttons and valentines, and a general observance of the event.

On May 1, the Sunday preceding Mother's day, the clergy will be asked to preach appropriate sermons and by preaching, song and prayer, the mother will be honored in every place of worship. Many ministers have accepted the invitation to preach on the subject, and are preparing touching and eloquent discourses for the occasion.

The mass meeting will be held in the First Methodist church Friday night, May 6. The program will consist of addresses by prominent local speakers, musical numbers and a stereopticon lecture, showing the benefits derived by both children and mothers by a public playground. The songs, to be sung by Salt Lake's favorite singers, were written especially for the occasion by Mrs. Baker P. Lee of Los Angeles, one of the founders of Mother's day.

The entertainment is in charge of a committee made up of Mrs. Fred Hornung chairman; Mrs. E. B. Palmer, Mrs. C. C. Bailey, Mrs. Seldon Clawson and Mrs. Frank Roberts.

The dance promises to be one of the most brilliant functions of the season and its grandeur and brilliancy will rival the charity ball. The affair is in charge of a levy of Salt Lake's most popular young society girls and will be under the patronage of twenty prominent matrons. The dance will be in the Ogden on the night of May 7. Miss Sybella Clayton will be in active charge, with Misses Stella Fabian, Minette Baer, Eleanor Stewart, Edna Dunn and Joy De Camp assisting her.

The white flower—the emblem of purity and fidelity—is the badge of Mother's day. While any white flower may be worn, the white carnation has, through its extended usage, become the official flower of Mother's day. Its whiteness stands for purity; its form, beauty; its fragrance, love; its wide field of growth, charity; its lasting quality, faithfulness—all a true mother's attributes. In order that everyone may wear one of these emblems to honor their mother, the club women will erect booths in the department stores and on the street corners, where the flowers may be purchased. Last year in Los Angeles over 50,000 carnations were worn during the observance of this day.

Mrs. L. C. Miller is in charge of the disposal of the flowers and assist her will be Mrs. Harry Gaw and Mrs. A. J. Gorham.

An important part of the observance will be the distribution of valentines and buttons. The latter are worn on and preceding Mother's day. The valentine is appropriately designed and is to be used by absent children to honor faraway mothers. This postal remembrance has proven one of the most popular forms of observance. Miss Ida Hanauer is chairman of the valentine and button committee. The other members are Mrs. A. H. Bird, Mrs. Charles G. Plummer and Mrs. A. T. McCaune.

Mrs. C. H. McMahon is chairman of the general committee, composed of the chairmen of the various committees, and the entire observance will be under its auspices. The clubs affiliated in the local movement are the P. E. O. society, Ladies' Literary club, the Authors, the Clef club, the Woman's Literary club, the Woman's Press club, the Woman's Auxiliary, the Seekers, the Monday Night, the Bay View Reading, the Woman's league and the College club.

It is the intention of the committee to make the observance statewide and to this end many outside clubs have become interested. They are the Woman's Athenaeum of Park City, the Ladies' Literary of Monticello and the Ladies' Auxiliary and Sorosis Juniors of Brigham City.

CATCH BURGLARS AT WORK.
Two Men Surprised While Rifling Residence of A. D. Lynn.

When Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Lynn returned to their residence at 423 First avenue, shortly after 9 o'clock last night, they saw two burglars at work in their dining room. When he had opened the front door Mr. Lynn heard two men dash out of the dining room and then leap over a fence to a back alley.

The burglars entered the residence by unlocking a back door. They had gathered several hundred dollars' worth of jewelry and silver on the dining room table and were about to make away with it when the Lynns came home. An inventory of jewelry and silver revealed that the burglars had taken a gold watch valued at $200 and a gold necklace.

Detective F. M. Wheeler, who investigated the case, believes it to be the work of experts.

CHRISTIANITY IS HELPFUL TO YOUTH

Young Men Urged to Ally Themselves With the Powers.

Yesterday proved another successful day at the First Methodist Episcopal church. The Sunday school attended the morning service in a body and occupied seats in the gallery. The pastor, Rev. Francis Burgette Short, preached a sermon on "The Gospel Invitation," in which he emphasized that the gospel call went forth to all men, to all ages of men and manhood. The gospel is the especial preserver of life, and offers the largest possible life to those who submit to its call in early life.

At the conclusion of the sermon J. M. Settle, superintendent of the Sunday school, presented fourteen of the Sunday school scholars to the pastor for church membership. Four adults also united with the church.

At the evening service another large congregation was present, and there was the usual delightful musical program in which the choir and the orchestra took prominent parts. The pastor preached a sermon to young men, basing his remarks upon the words of Peter to Aeneas, when Peter said, "Aeneas, Jesus Christ maketh thee whole; arise, and make thy bed. And he arose immediately."

Dr. Short said: "Christianity presents many strange and startling facts. It is ever abundant in glorious victories. Its mission is one of victorious helpfulness. It is here to assist those that have needs, and there is no need of which the human race has knowledge that Christianity does not undertake to solve, and does solve."

"Lydia not only had a Dorcas, it likewise had an Aeneas. There are saints that serve, there are likewise saints that suffer. This man had suffered for eight years. But suffering does not prevent the blessings of Christianity from entering the sufferer's life. Indeed, suffering is the door of opportunity for the blessings of Christianity to enter. Aeneas did not resent his lot, complain with a bitter and rebellious spirit. He bore his affliction and continued to seek a way of escape. Thus the poor cripple became the healed and rejoicing saint."

"The two supreme elements in his life were faith and obedience. Blessed is that man that fastens his faith to the good and mighty God. He had also faith in men. To him 'all men were not liars.' He listened to the words of Peter, the servant of God, and was obedient to him. Thus came to him that for which he had longed."

"Christianity makes strong and handsome young men. The mission of Christianity is heroic. It does not content itself with the ordinary affairs of life, though it does not pass them by. It seeks to do the great and mighty deeds for man that he may become inspired to undertake the great things of life."

"Christianity means heroes and heroines. It requires grit as well as grace to companion with the saints of God. Christianity summons into daily service the firmest resolves and the most constantly keen endeavor of your life. It makes its appeal to your entire manhood, and guarantees to you in return for your giving a life of supreme wonder and amazement."

"Young men, are you seeking to come into possession of the best that this and the other world have for you? Let me, therefore, urge you to seek to ally yourself with those powers that make for morality, stability and heroism. All these are at your disposal. You have your weakness, but Christianity stands beside you and says, 'Christ Jesus maketh you whole; arise, and make thy bed.'"

"Most men decide where they will sleep. Few are the exceptions to that rule. The one supreme need of our men today is to come into possession of the powers and the blessings of our Christianity. Nothing else can cure you, nothing else can assist you, nothing else can preserve you. My young friend, the Master has come and calleth for thee."

MAN THOUGHT DROWNED IS VERY MUCH ALIVE

Deputy Sheriffs Spend Day Dragging
Stream Only to Find Hentz
Escaped Death.

After four deputy sheriffs had devoted nearly eight hours in searching the waters of the Big Cottonwood, between the Mitchell & Gardner dam and the power house of the Utah Light & Railway company, for Andrew Hentz, the sheriff yesterday, he was found at the home of Fred C. Lynberg, Fifteenth South and State streets. Hentz disappeared from the Mitchell & Gardner construction camp after he had driven a horse and wagon into the Big Cottonwood, Monday night, and it was feared that he had been drowned.

Searching parties from the construction camp became disheartened Friday afternoon and called on Sheriff Joseph C. Sharp for assistance. Saturday the sheriff detailed Deputy Sheriffs R. L. Edgington and Jack Corliss to make an investigation. Unable to get a clue to the whereabouts of Hentz, they concluded that he had been drowned. Yesterday, accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Sam Nowell and Harold Pouch, they returned to the Big Cottonwood and devoted the entire day to dragging the stream.

Late yesterday afternoon Hentz' attention was attracted to a story in The Herald-Republican that sheriffs were searching for him and he immediately got into communication with Sheriff Sharp.

He had been drenched in the waters of Big Cottonwood and was cold, calling at the home of Lynberg for shelter on the night of the accident.

IDAHO SHERIFF AFTER A BOISE JAILBREAKER

Equipped with requisition papers, Sheriff A. J. Bennett of Boise, Idaho, arrived in Salt Lake yesterday to take George K. Palm, alias L. H. Clark, back to Boise. Palm, or Clark, it is alleged, is a jail-breaker, cutting his way to liberty after he had been locked up for the simple charge of peddling without a license, on suspicion of receiving a suit case of high-priced cigars through the local American Express office. He had been locked up but a day when it developed that he answered the description of a man who had broken jail at Boise.
